“ You soul has sailed to the distant shore now; where Heaven's Greeting party is waiting for you. I know you are happy to be there. The pain that once controlled your body and mind is gone at last. Joy is flooding your heart as you see loved ones and friends that has gone before you, standing on the shore to welcome you home.

I cry a tear for you, and then wipe it away as I remember your spirit, and smile.

I will never forget you and all the times we had.

See you later on.....
