“ My brother, Mark, was the smartest, kindest, most responsible, most honest, most loving man that I knew in my life. He was my mentor. I knew that as long as he was around, I always had someone to give me honest advice, with love, even if the words weren't the words that I wanted to hear. He was my protector. I knew that so long as he was alive, I always had a safe place to run...a place of acceptance, of love, of forgiveness. I will miss him more than I could possibly put into words here, but I trust that he found Mama and Daddy when he got to heaven, and he is at peace now; so although I cry for me, I rejoice for Mark. Rest in peace, my "big bro." You lived your life well.

“ Mary Jo - I am so sorry for your loss. I remember how kind you and Mark were when my Dad passed away 5 years ago. Mom said you both were the sweetest people. I'll pray you find comfort in the days ahead.

“ I remember Mark listening to music (we know as oldies) when he was still in highschool. I stayed overnight with Grandma and I was in the bathroom brushing my hair. I said something...Mark yelled at me. Now whenever I listen to the oldies, especially a Beatles song, I am reminded of him, Uncle Mark had such a gentle loving heart. I will miss him greatly. The last text I got from him he told me he was sending hugs and would give me a real one when we visited in person. The day we were going to visit him he died that morning and I missed my hug. So now when I get to heaven I will look him up and get a great big bear hug!
