“ Coming down just to shoot the breeze, when weather was good. Spent a lot of times on my own prattling round the house doing chores just as you'd do. Dropping in on ya with some home cooked food(, not nearly as good as yours, you said it's simple cooking....but you used your magic lol). Warm afternoons ,looking out southern end of back porch waiting for the hummingbirds to buzz past us, ...Lot of good afternoons and talks, real talk. Lots of simple jibber jabber and gossip too lol,... you were my last link to a grandparent, I never took that lightly....with you being just down the road.. all so much better.
You were very wise woman of humble and simple means. I'll cherish our candid exchanges and conversations.

They say, when an elder passes, an entire library of knowledge passes away with them.....I'd have picked your brain til you were exhausted with me, if I'd known my time to extract knowledge from you wasnt endless.....

"We always think we have time....."

You're so loved and have left an empty spot none other can fill in so many hearts. RIP, return if possible. Love you Grandma Zetta ❤️
